Prize Fighters Fined.

Police court was crowded yesterday to its full capacity with members of the sporting fraternity. There were a few others there who had read of the arrest of two prize fighters and their seconds. They were anxious to see what a bruiser looked like.

Sim Davis, the Wisconsin wonder, and Al Kirk, the principals, were each mulcted $50. Win Marsh, the light weight from this city, was charged with being a second to one of the principals, but the evidence was rather shaky and he was released. Prof. Kasten who is out on bond for the same charge, will be given a trial today. The two fighters were committed as no one appeared to pay their fine. The two men consider their arrest as a joke and pass their time by singing and sparring in the cell. They confidently expect to be released in a few days.

Verdict for the Defendant
