

Night Balloon Ascensions.

The night balloon ascensions of Professor Squires at Washington park are a novel as well as a drawing feature. He has made several such ascensions and is billed to go up in a brilliantly illuminated balloon to-morrow, night. Day ascensions had, the aeronaut claims, become too common, so he hit upon the novel scheme of a trip toward the stars by night, allowing his course to be traced by a bright illumination.

Sunday night he will make the ascension in the balloon, "Kansas City," said to be the largest in the West. When at the height of a mile he will drop with his parachute, his descent being marked by a display of fireworks. During the afternoon and evening the park band will give a lake concert.
