THE Chinese government, seeking to make us feel badly, has created a law that prevents all Chinamen once home from America from returning to this country. Why, bless their ancient, Confusian souls, we don't care how soon the Chinese authorities make a law recalling every Mongolian from America and keeping him away from our shores. He is a quiet, inoffensive fellow, but he is immiscible, unsociable, off color and generally undesirable. It is pleasing to Americans that the Chinese government proposes to get even with the United States government in such a harmless manner.
